

Child and Adolescent Psychoanalytic Training Program

NCP's Child and Adolescent Psychoanalytic Training Program (CAPT) is designed to train clinicians who work with children and adolescents by expanding their theoretical framework and clinical expertise. A deeper understanding of child development can also augment clinical work with adults. The didactic curriculum of study integrates classical, contemporary, and evolving approaches to theory and technique. The courses include a monthly child study group and bimonthly continuous case conferences along with psychoanalytic work with young children and adolescents.

Unique to NCP, there is a low-fee infant, child and adolescent clinic. Parents/legal guardians contact the clinic director first to learn about the clinic and then are assigned to Child Clinical Associates who are in their geographic region for an evaluation and possible treatment.

Training to Help Support Young Minds in Development

TUITION AND FEES

Annual Administration Fee: $100
Annual Case Conference Fee: $100
Tuition: No Supplementary Tuition

"This training completely changed the direction of my work... I am now trained to look at the entire person and their entire life, as early as they can remember. I learned that the most important part of my work is to explore what is playing out from their past that may be preventing them from moving forward and growing to their highest potential and really being free."

-Francine Duran, MA, AMFT
